

Associate for Pastoral Care

The Church of the Redeemer is searching for an additional full-time priest to join our team. We are a thriving Episcopal church in the city of Baltimore, a place of welcome and deep inquiry, committed equally to inner growth and community engagement. Our worship services are varied and beautiful. We participate regularly in small groups, which help make our large church intimate. We have multiple choirs, and we love music of many kinds. Our young people put on a musical every winter and meet throughout the program year for fellowship. Many in the congregation gather weekly to study or pray or serve, and we share a commitment to discovery and challenge. We have a growing day school and seek more opportunities to connect with the families we serve there.

Our newest associate would take the lead in organizing pastoral care and share with the other clergy in the ministry of preaching and teaching. Would you consider joining us?

The qualities we are looking for in another full-time associate may help you decide if we are the right fit for each other: a priest with a sense of humor, a sense of welcome, and a depth of spirit... a pastor who is approachable, grounded, and open to growing... a leader who is able to nurture other's gifts, able to draw healthy boundaries, and understands the importance of being both strong and kind. We hold ourselves lightly but take the work seriously.

We are ready to incorporate a new team member as soon as we find the right match. If you are interested, please send a cover letter and resume to dware@redeemberbaltimore.org.

Best, David
